For immediate release

The best apps are good apps - not only in quality but in their positive effects on users and the world around them. This is the guiding principle behind the new app from Soothy Inc.: Alive With Me.

Alive With Me is an anonymous group chat app that requires at least 95% charge to use. Users engage in positive discussions with other well-charged peers.

Conversations are regulated with a combination of moderators and natural language filters. Every use of the app will leave the user happier than they were before.

Death is a fact of life, but a culture of death is not. We can teach people to hold, not death and taxes, but life and prosperity as their ideals. Alive With Me is for those who chose to live life.

With widespread use, Alive With Me will also benefit the environment. Keeping a lithium-ion battery near charged increases its longevity compared to consistently draining it. If batteries last longer, fewer replacement batteries and phones are needed. This helps reduce the battery disposal burden and the mining of rare earth minerals for phones, both of which have pronounced environmental impacts.

This simple chat app is a tool to transform the world, person by person and by healing the planet. Help spread the word. Now available on the App Store and Google Play.
